Cleaning Vessels

A new apparatus for cleaning a vessel without docking is carried on a scow, and includes a suspended brush pressed against the hull by a propeller, which is rotated with the brush by an electric motor. A vessel of 8,000 tons is cleaned in six or seven hours.

A Great Building Falls.

when its foundation is undermined, and if the foundation of health—good digestion—is attacked, quick collapse follows. On the first signs of indigestion Dr. King's New Life Pills should be taken to tone the stomach and regulate liver, kidneys and bowels. Pleasant, easy, safe and only 25 cents at Oberdorfer's.

Freak Mule Colt Foaled.

A freak mule colt was foaled by a mare belonging to J. W. Williams, of Lincoln county. The animal was perfectly formed except the protuberance of a miniature foot from the hocks above the normal feet. Mr. Williams had the four abnormal feet amputated, and it is believed that the scars will heal up nicely.

Bankers Will Meet Thursday.

The Seventh Congressional District of the Kentucky Bankers' Association will hold its annual meeting in Georgetown next Thursday beginning at 10 o'clock in the morning. The main talk of the session will be made by Thos. J. Smith, Banking Commissioner, his subject being "One Year Under the New Banking Law." The visitors will be entertained with a luncheon given by the Georgetown bankers.

Found Injured in Tunnel.

Herbert Ballard, 22, a son of John Ballard, a wealthy farmer of Madison county, was picked up in a tunnel on the L. & N. near Ford Friday afternoon with one leg torn off. He was also badly bruised about the head and body. It is not known how he came there unless he fell from a train. He was taken to the infirmary at Richmond in an unconscious condition. But little hopes are entertained for his recovery. He has a young wife and baby.

Refrigerators.

See the Panama and Gibson lines of Refrigerators, also the New Progress in steel—best on earth.

E. M. WHEELER,
Robneel Building.

Plant Poisons.

An investigation of the South African disease known as lamiekete, or lame-sickness, suggests that it is due to a special plant poison that is generated under abnormal conditions in grasses or other plants that are normally harmless. Its development seems to be associated with unusual weather and soil experiences, of which summer drouth is important. Through such conditions wilting would favor the formation of the poison, and this gives explanation for the common belief that the disease results from eating wilted plants.

Flagged Train With Shirt.

Tearing his shirt from his back an Ohio man flagged a train and saved it from a wreck, but H. T. Alston, Raleigh, N. C., once prevented a wreck with Electric Bitters. "I was in a terrible plight when I began to use them and my stomach, head, back and kidneys," he writes, "were all badly affected and my liver was in bad condition but four bottles Electric Bitters made me feel like a new man." A trial will convince you of its matchless merit for the stomach, liver or kidney trouble. Price 50 cents at Oberdorfer's.

Rumor Untrue.

North Middletown, Ky., May 16, 1913.
Mr. C. A. McMillan, Paris, Ky.

Dear Sir: It has been talked around here that you are the candidate of certain politicians, and I have taken it on myself to ask you if these rumors are true. Very truly yours,
J. L.

My Dear Mr. L.:—Your card with inquiry about my race received, for which I thank you and in reply will state:

All rumors that I am the candidate of any man or set of men; of any politician or any ring of politicians; or of any clique, or faction or machine, are without the slightest foundation whatever.

I made up my mind the early part of January to ask the people of Bourbon county for the office of County Judge, prompted solely by my own ambition to hold this high office. At that time I informed one of the prospective candidates of my intention and said to him that I would be a candidate, no matter who else was in the race; I then informed Judge Dundon of my intention and also of my conversation with the other gentleman; and at that time I informed him that I was the candidate of no man except myself.

If some of the politicians give me their aid, I will appreciate their support, but no more however, than I do yours and that of other good friends in various parts of the county.

You can say to anyone with whom you meet that I intend to see each voter in person and ask that they withhold their promises of support until I can present my claims. If elected I promise that I will do nothing to make anyone regret having given me their support and influence.

Very truly yours,
C. A. McMILLAN.

A Call.

Mr. C. Ernest Martin: Believing the Bourbon Fiscal Court needs among its members some live young men who can see beyond the confines of one or two precincts, we urgently request you to become a candidate for Magistrate from the Paris Magisterial District.

MANY DEMOCRATS.

Off for Owensboro.

Among the Sir Knights of Coeur de Lion Commandery No. 26, who will leave this morning for the sixty-sixth annual convocation which will be held this week at Owensboro are as follows:

Sir Knights M. H. H. Davis, Joseph Faris, Bruce Miller, A. H. Keller, J. A. Revelle, R. A. Horton, C. J. Clarke, J. H. O. James, Newton Smith, Thomas McDonald and wife, R. E. Lusk and wife, J. B. Lusk and wife, and S. J. Bagby and wife.

Decoration Day June 3.

June 3 will be observed as the day for the decoration of the graves of the departed Confederates in the Paris cemetery. Preliminary arrangements with this in view were made at the regular meeting of the Richard Hawes Chapter United Daughters of the Confederacy held at the court house Saturday afternoon. Arrangements will be made for public address and exercises by the Hamilton Guards.

Attend Initiation.

Messrs. Joe H. Ewalt, Joe Faris, F. P. Collier, and Dr. G. L. Rankin, of this city, attended the meeting of the Blue Licks Masonic Lodge Saturday night at which three candidates were given the third degree. The were accompanied by Everett Fryman, Allie Dodson, and T. W. Current. The latter who is Worshipful Master of the Skawhan lodge conducted the initiatory exercises, after which a banquet was served.

Improved Lighting Device.

An improved plan for acetylene lighting consists of using portable calcium carbide containers, or gas generators, which cannot be removed for changing until the pipe or gas meter is closed, and which are sent to the supply house for recharging. With no loose or exposed carbide there is little danger of escape of gas into the house. Avoiding waste is said to make it practicable to run six twenty-five candle power lamps ten hours on a pound of carbide at a cost of 3 or 4 cents.

Heavy Rainfall.

Rather unexpectedly the slopes of Snowden, a Welsh mountain only 3,560 feet high, has proven one of the wettest regions in the world. The average annual rainfall of the globe is about thirty-six inches; that of tropical Cherrapongee, Assam, is 610 inches with an extreme of 910 inches in 1861; and that of Maranham, Brazil, 277 inches. Seathwaite a little village of the English valley of Borrowdale, has claimed the third highest record. The meteorological office, however received reports from thirteen Welsh stations of which Lluchfaat an altitude of 2,500 feet showed the greatest European rainfall—247 inches—and 11 exceeded the 143 inches of Seathwaite.

There are about 56,527,000 cattle on United States farms.

Latest Innovation.

The electrical auction is one of the latest innovations. It appears that weekly sales of eggs at auction are an old custom at certain market places in Holland and the plan has been involved of conducting these sales quietly and expeditiously by a novel registering of bids. Each possible buyer is assigned to a numbered seat. The auctioneer or seller has before him a dial, around which is a raising scale of all possible prices, and a large board connected with electrical numbers. The quality and weight of the usual lot of 2,500 eggs having been announced, the bids begin. The auctioneer slowly turns the hand around the dial, and as a satisfactory figure is reached the bidder presses the button, causing the figure on the board to light up and the person's number to be registered by an annunciator. Successive higher bids are recorded in the same way.

CHILDREN'S DAY

Appropriately Observed at the Methodist Church Sunday.

The children of the Methodist Sunday School were given the right of way Sunday morning during the regular hours of service, this being the day for the annual observance of Children's Day throughout the whole country.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with quantities of syringa twining the altar rail, baskets and bouquets of roses and peonies in every available place, and these together with the bright faces of the children, and singing canary birds, made an inspiring and impressive scene.

The subject, "Boys and Girls of the Bible," was admirably carried out in songs and recitations by the members of the primary and intermediate classes. Every member showed careful training and enthusiastic interest.

The march from the Sunday School room through the aisles of the main auditorium was a beautiful sight, and was led by Miss Edna Fronk, followed by the youngest member of the school, followed by the various classes of all ages to the pupils of the adult classes, some of whom are gray-haired men and women.

Mrs. Frank Bryan presided at the piano and Mr. Henry A. Power, superintendent of the school, announced the program, which was as follows:

Mr. J. Simus Wilson has returned from a business trip to Oklahoma, where he went to look after his interests in Pensacola, Okla., the town which has been opened within the past few months on Mr. Wilson's land, and which has had such a phenomenal growth.

A telephone exchange, a weekly newspaper and a bank are among the recent improvements to the town, besides a number of substantial business houses and residences are in process of erection.

Japanese paper umbrellas and lanterns are waterproofed with oil extracted from the rubber plant seed.

Stringent Austrian Building Laws.

Austrian laws require that dwellings and business houses be built of solid material from interior to exterior. Building regulations in Austria are very strict and are rigidly enforced. Interior walls there are chiefly of plaster and concrete, but bricks and latins are much used.

IRRIGATED LANDS

Near Yellowstone to Be Opened By the Government.

The United States Reclamation Service announces the availability for homestead entry some excellent irrigated farms in the well known Shoshone irrigation project near the Yellowstone Park in Wyoming and in the Huntley and Belle Fourche projects in Montana and South Dakota.

Water is now ready for delivery to these farms, and under the new three year homestead law a liberal inducement is accorded settlers in that they are permitted five months' leave of absence in each year. The cost of the water right is payable in ten annual installments without interest.

In all the foregoing districts there are already splendid transportation facilities, good roads, schools, stores, churches of practically all denominations and rural free delivery. For those with sufficient means to combine farming operations this offers an excellent opportunity to work out one's independence and to develop a paying farm.

Mr. Albert V. Leonard, Settlement Agent of the reclamation service Federal Bldg., Chicago, has available for distribution several descriptive pamphlets concerning these projects and will be glad to furnish them upon request.

Marchan, of Barceloneta, writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery is doing splendid work here. It cured me about five times of terrible coughs and colds, also my brother of a severe cold in his chest, and more than 20 other, who used it on my advice. We hope this great medicine will yet be sold in every drug store in Porto Rico." For throat and lung troubles it has no equal. A trial will convince you of its merits. 50c $1.00. Trial bottle free. ### Stonewall Jackson.

The New York World of May 2, contained the following: Fifty years ago to-night there fell mortally wounded at Chancellorsville one of the great captains of the English-speaking races.

Lee, who called Stonewall Jackson his strong right arm, once said he would have won Gettysburg if Jackson had been there. Be that as it may, the almost uninterrupted victories of the Army of Northern Virginia ended when Jackson passed away. Chancellorsville marked the flood-tide of the Confederate arms. Two months later came Gettysburg and from thence on to Appomattox Lee's forces, despite all their marvelous courage and tenacity, were never again invincible.

Jackson place in military history is unique. Most great reputations were made by long years of service. His career was compressed into a scanty twenty-two months from that day in July, 1861, when Bee pointed to him "standing like a stonewall" at Bull Run, to the early May day in 1863, when he marched his corps around the front of Hooker's army, smashed in its right flank and gave the Confederacy its most brilliant victory only to fall under the fire of his own men.

A terrible partnership was that between the Cavalier and the Puritan; between Lee, who embodied the chivalry of Virginia, and Jackson who was the direct spiritual descendant of the men that fought under Cromwell at Naseby. In all crises the two men seemed to fight with a single brain and a single purpose, destitute alike of the jealousy and intrigue that all but wrecked the army of the Pottomac.

Jackson presents a strange, appealing figure on the pages of history. He was as gentle and gracious as Lee, as silent and taciturn as Grant, as daring and audacious as Stuart or Sheridan, as relentless as Sherman, and with it all there was an intensely religious fervor that belonged to the seventeenth century rather than the nineteenth. The war to him was a holy war. He went to battle with a prayer on his lips, and he went from the battle to give thanks to God who had crowned his army with victory.

Appealing from his native sod in forma pauperis to God, "Yay bare thine arm—stretch forth thy rod. Amen!" That's Stonewall's way.

Even the bullets that struck him down he regarded as providentially directed by a definite Divine purpose. There is no more mendacious phrase than that of "a born soldier," but here was a man who was beyond question a born soldier—a soldier who hated war, who was dazzled neither by ambition nor glory, who fought for principle and principle alone and whose military genius was elemental. Peace to his ashes. A united nation can be proud that he was numbered among her sons.

It is one thing to make soda crackers that are occasionally good.

It is quite another thing to make them so that they are always better than all other soda crackers, always of unvarying goodness.

The name "Uneeda"—stamped on every biscuit—means that if a million packages of Uneeda Biscuit were placed before you, you could choose any one of them, confident that every soda cracker in that package would be as good as the best Uneeda Biscuit ever baked. Five cents.
